THAT BERLIN EXPULSION.

Dr. Louis Bauer Claims the American Students' Diplomas Cut No Figure.

Dr. Louis Bauer thinks that entirely too much importance has been attached by the people of this country to the expulsion of six American medical students from a college in Berlin. The idea that there is any international question involved is ridiculed by him.

"The newspapers a few days ago published strange articles announcing that the University of Berlin had refused to recognize medical degrees conferred by American institutions, and upon that ground dismissed six American students. From the statement of Prof. Bauer, it appears that it was not the University but a post-graduate school."

THREE PROMINENT PHYSICIANS CRITICISE THE ACT.

try to make an international question out of it and, for all I know, they may petition the Government to recall the Hon. Phelps, Ambassador to the Court of Berlin. The whole thing appears to me to be a farce. Under the unexpressed title "Much Ado About Nothing," in the first place the University admits every one without restrictions whatsoever, whether native or foreign, whether he has passed preliminary examination or not, whether he is in possession of a diploma or not, and expels nobody except for discipline or a transgression. The post-graduate school of Berlin, which is a private association, bears no relation to the University of the State and admits every one without any discrimination, provided he can pay his fee for the instruction he seeks and receives. If they have expelled six American doctors it has been for causes absolutely irrespective of their diplomas.

diplomas of the natives as a mere academic honor or degree, it could not possibly make an exception in favor of an American doctor's diploma. The practice of medicine depends on the passage of the so-called State examination, and that is a matter of course. Of late, however, the practice of medicine is perfectly free to native or foreigner, but a practitioner must not use titles or qualifications which are not acknowledged by the Prussian laws. It would, therefore, appear that the laws of Prussia are more liberal than they are in some of our States.

arrived yesterday on the Lahn. He declared that his sudden departure from England was not due to jealousy of Mrs. Langtry. He will soon go to his vineyard in Southern California.

HE WILL TAKE CHARGE OF HIS WIFE'S ESTATE.

Charles F. Vall, after putting in the day in the city yesterday with Sheriff Schneider of St. Charles County as a companion and guard, returned to St. Charles last evening. He was brought here on a writ of habeas corpus issued by the Probate Court with the Sheriff of St. Charles County. At 3 o'clock Vall was in the Probate Court and applied for letters of administration on his wife's estate. As this estate amounts to $10,000, all in insurance money, Judge Wornor granted a bond of $25,000, and Vall was given until Monday to file it. The insurance, on the estate of Vall, is in the United States Life Insurance Company and the New

"Knowledge Is Power."

JAMES COPELAND,

OF
The Young and Gifted
CLARVOYANT AND TRANCE SPIRIT MEDIUM.

This medium was born in Philadelphia year of date and at the age of 7 years first realized his wonderful powers; and was taken by a wonderful medium and carefully developed. He has since revealed many marvellous facts. He has many controlling spirit, but the principal influence is an Indian spirit who has been with him from his first development. He is famous for giving comfort to those in distress and trouble, and above all how to overcome evil influences that cause distress and misfortune.

In one of his most eminent clairvoyant and trance mediums of the present age. He has dreamed up all affairs of life, business, sickness, law suits, divorces, pending pension claims, or anything you may be in doubt of. His revelations are certainly wonderful and are acknowledged to be of the highest order. He profits with a certainty your future by higher than human power. His descriptions of your friends and enemies are as real as though they stood before you.

MR. COPELAND'S PREDICTION.

He Gives a Sample of His Prophetic Powers.

Mr. James P. Copeland, the trance medium and ordained missionary of the Southern Spiritualist Association, who is having a large number of consultations at his room, No. 302 Westminster street, yesterday told a "Telegram" reporter an instance of his prophetic powers. He said that he had always seen a clairvoyant, and that his mother was a clairvoyant, and that she had foretold that one of the greatest cities of history would desolate Chicago. This peculiar gift he had inherited and had successfully exercised on many occasions, warning people against the evils that beset them and telling them of the dangers that fortune had in store.

Mr. Copeland recalled an incident to which he thought would be of special interest to Providence, as the person benefited by the trance revelations was in business on Westminster street and could vouch for the reliability of the wonderful statements. On the 6th of June Mr. Frank Furman called to learn if the celebrated medium could tell him anything that occurred during the past year. Mr. Furman had no faith in Spiritualism, and was annoyed about anything that occurred during the past year. However, he decided to try, and was informed that he was indeed a favorite of fortune, as at the minute parties in England were seeking him, that he might be given possession of an estate worth several tens of money. He was very incredulous, but those having it in charge did not know where the man was, so they sent him a letter. Mr. Furman wrote carefully, as in some of them he would find information that occurred during the past year. It was what Mr. Furman read in the Boston Herald of the 6th of June the advertisement which is following:

INFORMATION WANTED—Of two twin brothers, one of whom is now residing in London, the other in New England. By the death of Robert E. Smith, Esq., of New York City, there has been left a large estate of $150,000. They are requested to send their names to Mr. J. H. Cope, Esq., of New York City, or to Thomas Palmoth, 70 Duven Street, Sheffield, Eng., for proceedings to prove, they have not directed him," said the medium, "the rights have remained in ignorance of his own fortune, for the advertisement was so general in its terms that I was unable to connect the name of my friend Furman of Providence with the estate that he claimed to be entitled to. The truth of my claims to be able to see into the future that to me seemed an odd thing, that I was convinced of the fact of the revelation of the estate being established to the satisfaction of any who may be incredulous." Mr. Frank Furman corroborated what the medium said, and added that he had never seen the advertisement, but that he was well acquainted with the man who was heir to a large estate across the water, that he was certain that the man was entitled to the estate, and that he would be communicated with through the columns of a newspaper.

The next morning the Boston Herald printed the advertisement reprinted in this article. Mr. Furman read it, and was surprised to find that it stated that he was certain the medium had never heard of the estate, and that he was convinced of the fact of the revelation of the estate being established to the satisfaction of any who may be incredulous. He was positively sure, and as soon as he saw the advertisement he knew that the man was entitled to the estate. For a long time he had known that there was property in England which belonged to him, and that he was entitled to it, but he had been unable to obtain possession of the Furman thousand dollars. He was convinced that the man was entitled to the estate that there was more than was mentioned in the advertisement.

OUR SUGAR PROBLEM.

THE EDITOR OF "BRADSTREET'S" GIVES A LITTLE TALK ON FREE SACCHARINE.

We consume Forty-Six Pounds of Sugar Per Annum, and Would Eat More if It Were Not for the Sugar Trust.

Article Was Unchecked—How It Could Be Done Without Injury to the Sugar Planters and Manufacturers.

Special Correspondence of SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, March 8.

The duty on sugar promises to be a topic of more importance than past years.

It is the duty on sugar that has been the subject of much discussion in the House of Representatives.

First, there is the principle of protection to be kept in view.

Second, there is the question of the alleged surplus.

Next, the Louisiana cane planters must be kept in mind.

After that, the sugar trust must be considered.

Nothing has been done so far as to bring the subject prominently before the public as the organization of the Sugar Trust and the competition between it and the planters.

Philadelphia and San Francisco. The plan is to have a meeting of the Sugar Trust in New York.

JASPER COUNTRY MINES.

Their Output Continues to Be Satisfactory and Miners Are Well Pleased.

By Telegram to the POST-DISPATCH.

CARTHAGE, Mo., March 8.—The improvement in the weather has given a better chance to the men engaged in mining and as a result the amount prepared for market is larger than last week.

Sales are not very heavy, but the miners are waiting for a rise in the market.

Although the price is not as good as it was six months ago, yet the ease with which the mines are operated makes it possible to secure large returns on the heavy investments made in former times.

At each point about the country the heavy investments made in former times are being recovered.

Who the Richest Woman in St. Louis Is and What Her Income Is Said to Be—The Other Lucky Feminine Possessors of Wealth.

[illegible]

to gray. She has iron will stamped on every line of her strong, good face and there is kindness falling like a mantle over a mind and power written in the lines of her face. To blow the strange-ness of life an incident of local interest will not be amiss, especially as she told the story to her friends' amusement. Just before her recent illness Mrs. Russell took an Olive street car. Having gone a few squares in the car the conductor came to her for his fare. She put her hand in her pocket to draw out her purse, when lo! it was empty. She had forgotten to bring it with her. She told the story of her forgetfulness, and he answered curtly she must leave the car. She did without a word, and, deliv-ered, she was, walked alone to her home. That a picture that was, one of the wealthiest men of the West obliged to leave a car, and for one little five cents fare.

Mrs. Annie Russell Allen

Mrs. ANNIE RUSSELL ALLEN, has for a few of the late Thomas R. Allen, has for a few between three and four millions. Russell brought her money to her hus- band, having received it from her father, a capitalist of national fame, another the last mayor of this city. After the death of Thomas Allen some years ago, Mrs. Allen virtually took up her residence at the birth place of husband, Pittsfield, Mass., to which he was always very much attached, and where she has since lived with him. Allen home in that place is a very hand- some one. The favorite grandchild of the mistress of the handsome home is little Annie Russell Allen, the pretty, delicate little daughter of her son Bradford, whose death under such and circumstances occurred a few years since. Personally Mrs. Allen is rather plain, but her husband is a very attractive man of features. Her conversation is lively and fluent when she so wills to talk, but she is not a talker. Her husband is a man of a strong purpose and firm will, but a pleasant manner which is always gentle to her friends and family.

Mrs. ELIZA M'KREE

Mrs. ELIZA M'KREE, of McKee's famous fortune "estimated by good authority amount to at least $1,600,000 and is the largest of what the world has ever seen. It is a world of good the philanthropic man does with that fortune. In her early life she was a very devoted friend of retirement since her husband's death. In the society of her daughter Miss McKee she has spent the greater part of her life. Although continually sought after by society she cares little for the society of the world. She is full to works of charity and mercy. She is a philanthropist of the loftiest type and has been a benefactor of the poor and needy for the benefit of humanity. She is ready to assist any one in need, and has not even her dearest friends, dream of a moment of good done by this grand soul. For example, she has a great friend, a man of great manner that wins the heart as he wins the mind. Her gentle face is illumined by a smile that is the most beautiful and courteous, delightfully on every subject she has the hour of her life.

Mrs. Lucy V. Sample has a very large fortune; no one but herself can tell just how much. She is not heavily assessed, so her fortune is not in local real estate, but in other valuable interests. She came into possession of her wealth at her husband's death, and increases its value by large property she has many splendid investments, and has practically also the fortune of her brother, Mortimer Boe, who is a hopeless invalid. Mrs. Copelin is a clever financier and takes active interest in her business affairs. She has an agreeable address, is affable, courteous and entirely amiable in manner.

gayeties of social life and entertained magnificently at her elegant home on Locust and Twenty-eighth streets. With her daughters she went constantly in the gay whirl and was regarded as a social queen and leader. She had gone much in society always, especially when chaperoning her beautiful would be nearer the truth. She has magnificent business interests, being largely interested in the coal and iron mines of the West. She has two sons living, the oldest, Fred W. C. Clymer, having married the belle and heiress of the famous Allegheny Valley coal and iron company. A sketch of whose life and whose portraits are given in the Allegheny News-PATCH. He is now married a second time. Mrs. Clymer is a stately woman with great intelligence and a most refined and noble character.

MRS. JULIA TURNER, widow of the late JOHN TURNER, is estimated to possess about $400,000, though she has more than that amount. This fortune was inherited from her husband. Mrs. Anne Lucas Hunt, who is a sister of Mrs. Turner, is a woman of great refinement and mother of a very large number of children, several of whom are dead whilst nine are living. Her belle daughter, Miss Susie Turner, is the baby of the hour. Mrs. Turner is a very charming woman, personally. She is a beautiful face, gentle and kind and intellectual. As a girl she was a beauty and is still a very pretty. Her type is of the blonde, having lovely blue eyes and pretty hair. Mrs. Turner is a very social and charming family residing in a handsome house on Seventeenth and Lucas place. This is a very desirable residence and the domestic happiness with the pretty girls and the charming mother is a thing to be envied. Whilst there was every comfort in this home there was never extravagance of any kind, and the family was a religious one. It is said that the family all together did not possess jewelry amounting to $100. The family was a very religious one, and the father, John Maj. Turner, who so generally beloved, was a very pious gentleman. Mrs. Turner was always a devout member of the Roman Catholic faith and her husband became a convert to the same religion. It was his piety. The family was so large that it required two pews in St. John's Church to hold the family. Mrs. Turner was a very devoted wife. Turner his widow gave up her city home and retired to the country to live. She cares for her children and grandchildren with the love, remarkable for fine intelligence and good practical sense.

MRS. ELIZA A. W. CLYMER has a fortune estimated in real estate alone to be worth $250,000. She is the daughter of the late Heister Clymer of Pennsylvania, but her wealth was left her by her first husband, John W. Clymer, who was a very successful merchant. Mrs. Wm. Schrader, Mrs. Clymer is a prominent business woman, with a fine face and glossy black hair. She is very pretty and has a perfectly moulded form, and animated and intelligent expression. She is a native of France. Mrs. Clymer resided in the East and Washington, but after the tragic death of her husband she came to this city to reside. The pretty widow is very popular and is a woman of great refinement. She is universally beloved for her sweet disposition and charming vivacity of manner.

MRS. ANNE LUCAS HUNT has a fortune estimated at the least amount at $400,000, which makes her one of the wealthiest women in the city. She is the daughter she inherited from her mother, Mrs. Theodosia Hunt, who was a very successful business woman. Mrs. Hunt and sister of Mrs. Julia Turner,

Mrs. W. Bradford.

Mrs. Bradford some time ago sold her handsome residence on Pine street and has removed farther in the West End. In appearance she is quite attractive, with a charming smiling and pretty manner. She is of medium height, slender and graceful. Her complexion is fair, her eyes blue and her hair glossy in hue. She is of the cotestantal religion.

MRS. NANCY L. JOHNSON, wife of Dr. J. B. Johnson and daughter of the late James H. Lucas, to judge of the amount the lady assesses her net estate, has a fortune of at least $60,000. This wealth was inherited from her father, the late James H. Lucas, in his day the richest man in Missouri. Mrs. Johnson has a handsome home in Lucas place, which is artistically furnished. She is a brunette, luminous, dark eyes and a pleasant expression which is kindness itself. She married Mr. Johnson when scarcely 17 years, and though the mother of many children, three of whom are married, she still has her dark hair and eyes as bright as when she was a large scale at her home whenever the debut of a daughter announces the comings of "another Miss Johnson." And as toilettes here are always exquisite as are those of all, and as she is a fond, loving mother, and is perfectly devoted to her husband, home and children. In faith she is Jeanne Calvat.

MRS. HENRY ECHENROCK has a fortune which is, at the very lowest estimate, $500,000, and as this constitutes her net estate, her entire wealth is probably three times as much. She lives in her home in Lucas place and is a queen in the household. She is quiet and reserved in disposition but is the most pleasant and most gracious of mothers, covering with ease and fluency. She is a Protestant—Presbyterian—and a devoted church attendant, and she thinks no more about it than she does of her own good devoted to literary pursuits. She is a brunette with soft dark hair and a charming smile. She has elegant and dainty taste in the selection of her toilettes and has added to her fine mental qualities and prettiness of face and form a most winning manner and pleasant disposition. Her family is friendly and interesting. She is, as all the ladies of the Frost family, a devoted member of the Roman Catholic religion. Mrs. Frost spends most of her time in England and in travel abroad, two of her sisters having married in England. Mrs. Frost has a young son, who appeared in the list of St. Louis ladies who have made foreign marriages, which was published some months ago in the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

Miss Lillie Frost, another daughter of Gen. D. M. Frost, has a fortune amounting to the same as her sister, Miss Carrie. She also spends much of her time in Europe. Miss Lillie is a sweet girl, about 21 years old, with dark hair and great blue eyes, resembling greatly her sister, Mrs. Frank Hirschberg of this city. The young lady has a charming disposition, being bright and animated.

Mrs. CATHERINE J. Frost.

The wife of Gen. D. M. Frost, and daughter of the famous James Oglethorpe, has a fortune, whose real estate alone is valued at more than $200,000, but of course, the real value is much more. Mrs. Frost is a widow, and lately, Mrs. Owen Oates, a widow. As Mrs. Oates she had two children, Mulanphy and Owen Oates, the latter of whom has become a lawyer. He became the third wife of Gen. D. M. Frost. Mrs. Frost resided lately, during the winter on Carr place, in which the Frost family have lived for many years. She is a pleasant, agreeable, tasteful, delicate, charming and brown haired, she has gracious manners, conversing beautifully and possessing a high degree of refinement. Mrs. Frost is a member of the Roman Catholic church. Her fortune is inherited from her father.

Mrs. ISABEL TRACY FRANK.

The widow of John Frank, the daughter of the late Edward Tracy, has a fortune which places her as the richest young widow in St. Louis. Mrs. Frank is a widow, and is estimated as she has immense sums invested in different outside interests, beside a great estate in real estate, which is constantly increasing in value. This fortune was left her by her husband, who died previously to her death.

A WASTE OF WATER.

Critical Condition of a Number of the Settlers in These Low Lands.

(From a Staff Correspondent of the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.)

ALTO, Ill., March 8.—High water at the junction of the Ohio River with the Mississippi—whether it be flood in the beautiful river or in the Father of Waters—means disaster to thousands of bottom farmers. When, after a long, hard winter, the spring thaws let out through the Yellowstone and the Missouri the melted snows; when the breaking of the ice gorges at St. Paul, Davenport, Keokuk, etc., let out the stored water, then the Mississippi is at flood-height and the bottoms are drowned. At the same time the snows at the headwaters of the Ohio, the Tennessee, the Cumberland and smaller rivers melt, the Ohio is

A deer at a disadvantage. A flood, and at Cairo the floods join in a record-breaking current that is far from amusing to those who live in the low lands. Every spring the high waters come down. Every year Cairo is threatened with an inundation, and frequently the farms about there are washed with snow water.

Such a flood is on now, but fortunately for the Egyptians, their Missouri and Kentucky neighbors, it is the Ohio only that is responsible for the overflow. The record of February 26 and 27, 1887, will not be equalled and for this one reason—the Mississippi is abnormally low. On the dates mentioned the Cairo gauge, which is on the Ohio side of the town, showed there was 52.2 feet of water in the river. At that time there was 15 feet of water at St. Louis. Friday the water at Cairo touched the 45-foot mark, and at St. Louis there was but 3 1/2 feet of water. If there had been on Friday at St. Louis fifteen feet, the highest record at Cairo might have been passed. With a still higher stage of water at St. Louis in February, 1888, the gauge at Cairo registered but 3 1/2.

This shows that though the present record has been twice surpassed within the memory of man, never before was there such a volume of water poured out of the Ohio.

In another point the present flood is a record breaker. On Thursday night the river rose nearly half a foot. If an equal volume of water had come down when the river was at the average stage, this half foot rise would have been six feet. The signal service record shows only that the five-tenths of a foot rise occurred in the twenty-four hours preceding 9 o'clock Friday morning. The truth is it occurred in less than twelve hours. Thursday the prophets who cluster about the gauge said the river had reached its top limit. Friday they found it half a foot higher. The present width of the river in its narrowest parts is treble its width at ordinary stage, and in the lowlands the water stretches out for miles among the trees. There is water from high land in Illinois to high land in Missouri. Railroad beds usually lifted high in the air are soggy under the ties with water that laps their ends. Baron Edward Rothschild and young Belmont, who are swilling over the country in a private car, came down to Cairo on Thursday night's train from St. Louis, were side-tracked on the levee, and in the morning looked out as from a steamboat cabin on the widest river they had ever seen. From their car window—which would have been had the river been at the average stage, between 100 and 300 yards from the water's edge—they might throw out a bucket and draw it back filled with water from the Ohio. And their car was on the levee which was protecting Cairo from overflow. Three feet more and the water would be pouring across the track on which their car stood into the holes and low levels of the Egyptian capital. Later in the morning this special car was attached to a train and taken south. As they crossed the Ohio over the dizzy distance of slender spars and thread-like trestles, the view from the car observatory was across such a power of water as can be seen on no other rivers in the world. They saw the Ohio and in the Mississippi, and a flood flow on that would wash Niagara or tear a channel through the Rocky Mountains. There were those broad bands of silver on the view, and great stretches of black and silver, the Mississippi rolling down, the Ohio joining it, the combined rivers flowing slightly out of course with either, and the submerged and timbered bottom land.

All the rivers of Europe combined could not make as imposing a show.

Cairo beneath their gaze seemed mainly on the Cairo side were run almost up to the top of the levee on Friday because of the water's height, and it was possible because the grade was gradual and so long as there was an unwatered track for the grade to lead to business could go on as usual. But the tracks at Bird's Point were not so carefully laid. Between the highest point of track to the grade there is a dip and a rise. This fact caused an inconvenience on the high water came Thursday night the water washed the low point of the tracks, Friday morning water was six feet over it and Friday night as the engines swished through with their heavy trains the water splashed into the fire-box. The transfer boat's prow then loomed above the highest point of the track, and the backwater that had been steadily moving for several days in upon the tracks in the yards of the two railroads there had nearly submerged everything. The two frame depots being on piles, were high out of the water. Many houses were in the water up to the eills of their windows and had been abandoned by the owners, who were living on higher land, were in the construction train cars, or had fled to Cairo.

On a track near the Iron Mountain landing was a train consisting of seven freight cars and an ancient passenger coach, painted blue. The doors of the freight cars had been cut in half, so that the upper portion could be

NEW CLOCK MECHANISM.

THE INGENUOUS DEVICE USED TO REGULATE THE NORMAL CLOCKS OF BERLIN.

How the Telephone Wires Are Made to Do an Extra Service—How Clocks Can Be Made and Regulated by This System—Clocks Regulated by Electricity and Air Pressure.

(Written for the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.)

THE definition of the word "time" has never been made more clear to the general public than through the modern development of railroads and the telephone. This led a short time ago to a newspaper discussion about the necessity of establishing a standard time, i. e., to regulate all clocks according to the time of a certain place. From one country to another the value of the establishing of a standard time for the entire world, such as the astronomers have proposed, becomes at once obvious, in order to facilitate international traffic. This demonstrates clearly that a more exact knowledge of the definition of time becomes important with the increasing intercourse of the nations and betokens a higher round of civilization; for, has often been held that the lesser or greater valuation, which is put upon time, is the correct measure for the civilization of a people. At the suggestion of the director of the Berlin conservatory some years ago six normal clocks were put up in that city on some of its principal thoroughfares. These clocks are in direct electric connection with the regulator at the observatory. This regulator closes its circuit every two seconds, which has the effect that the normal clocks run precisely the same, which means the regulation of time to the second, an absolutely necessary circumstance for the railway and telegraph service as well as for the domestic clock-makers' trade.

Experience has taught that the electric clocks, even those made after the most perfect system, perform their functions satisfactorily only when they are under constant supervision, for a more extended usage, such as the public service of a metropolitan city would require, where the exactitude of a minute is sufficient for the commercial and social intercourse, more simple and less complicated regulation methods were sought.

Such a method was discovered some years ago by Civil Engineer C. A. Mayrhofer in the pneumatic force of air, which was applied to the construction of clocks with hydraulic pneumatic works, and they were gradually made after several systems.

Prepared for the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH

in her time. Oh, sad and miserable picture of the transmission of evil from generation to generation! Truly, the nations of Phoenicia and Israel now extend and increase their dominion over the people of Allah and Jezebel, because the influence of the crown of Judah, and we have seen and we know, is a source of bondage, including the whole people of the East, dominating over the nations of Phoenicia and foreign notions, and ruled in the interests of unrighteousness and unbelief.

But, what a picture of a worldly success, of the triumph of the wrong over the right, of the triumph of the evil over the good, of the son, succeeds him. What kind of a man is he? He is a man who has no mother. On the throne of Israel now Jezebel's son, and Jezebel's daughter are seated. They are the only ones who are sole sovereigns of that land when Jezebel's son, and Jezebel's daughter, are on the throne. What a picture of humiliation full? Was not the triumph of adversity complete? Why do we fear to own day? The Lord is King through it and when the hour of time is ripe the
